Stevenage Borough Council values its older residents. We want to support our older people to remain in the homes they love and stay independent longer. To help us do this, we are working closely with our partners and the community to improve communication and provide valuable information and guidance about local services.

Our population is getting older, people are living longer and not everyone has family support. There is an increasing need for information and advice to help residents get access to the right service at the right time.

This guidance will signpost older people and their families or carers to a service that can help or support them when they need it. It will also help give older people a good quality of life with information and advice about increasing social activity, improving health and well-being, maintaining personal safety and reducing isolation.

Home Adaptations and Equipment
These are changes or alterations made to your home to make life safer and easier to manage. You can either purchase adaptations and equipment directly yourself, or you may be eligible for support from, Hertfordshire County Council Health and Community Services team or Stevenage Borough Council subject to an assessment.

If you live in a council owned property the council may be able to help you with some adaptations. We may have alternative accommodation that would be more suitable. Your tenancy advisor will be able to advise you further on this. If you do make alterations or adaptations to your home that are not done through the housing service, you must let your tenancy adviser know. You should seek permission prior to making any changes.

Minor adaptations
These are small low-cost changes that can be made to your home, for example:

• grab rails around the bath, shower or toilet or by the front or back door
• a second stair rail to make it easier to go up and down stairs
• short ramps or small steps to doors
• a community alarm – a pendant alarm button to wear around your neck or wrist which you can press if you become unwell or fall and emergency help will be called for you.
Major adaptations
These are usually quite costly and may mean a lot of alterations to your home, but can make a big difference to your life for example:

• level access showers or wet rooms
• a stair lift or through floor lift
• long ramps, altering rooms and widening doorways

Disability Equipment
Disability equipment and aids can help you manage more independently at home in a number of daily situations, including mobility, bathing, continence, seating, eating/drinking, dressing and much more. As with adaptions support may be available subject to assessment through Herts County Council. If you are a council tenant please discuss with your tenancy advisor at Stevenage Borough Council in the first instance.

Winter Warmth

The Cold Weather Plan for England 2014 gives advice on preparing for the effects of winter on people’s health. These are the room temperature recommendations for your home:

Heating homes to at least 18°C (65F) in winter poses minimal risk to the health of a sedentary person, wearing suitable clothing.

Daytime recommendations
The 18°C (65F) threshold is particularly important for people over 65yrs or with pre-existing medical conditions.
Having temperatures slightly above this threshold may be beneficial for health.

Overnight recommendations
Maintaining the 18°C (65F) threshold overnight may be beneficial to protect the health of those over 65yrs or with pre-existing medical conditions. They should continue to use sufficient bedding, clothing and thermal blankets or heating aids as appropriate.

Stevenage Borough Council Energy and Sustainability Strategy is due to be published in spring 2015 with information to be published on the web site.

Condensation and Mould

Condensation occurs mainly during cold weather when moisture in the form of little drops of water appears on cold surfaces where there is little movement of air. The moisture can come from a person’s breath; (an adult can breathe out one pint of this during the night), or from drying clothes, tumble dryers, cooking and showers or baths. Leaks, blocked gutters, eroded walls and poor damp proofing can also cause condensation.

To overcome this problem and prevent mould growing in areas of condensation it is important to have good ventilation throughout the property. Use extractor fans, vent tumble dryers. Keep doors shut when bathing and dry clothes outside. Maintain a low level of background heat and keep furniture away from walls to allow air flow. Do not block permanent ventilators. It is also good to insulate your loft and consider cavity wall insulation. Wipe down surfaces regularly to prevent mould growing, this can be done with a fungicidal wash. If you are a council tenant you should contact the repairs service in the first instance to report the problems that you have. We will investigate to see if there are any defects to your home that are causing the problem and give you advice on how you can help to reduce damp and mould in your property.

Private tenants should contact their landlord. Stevenage Borough Council tenants:

The Care Act 2014
The implementation of this new act means there will be changes in the way older people’s services are delivered. Hertfordshire County Council Health and Community Services will be responsible for delivering the changes from April 2015. Welfare Reform
Major changes are also happening to the benefit and tax credit system. These will affect some people going into care homes, as well as the benefits of any family members who remain at home.

One of the main changes will affect you if you are not of pensionable age and have more bedrooms than you need. If you are claiming Housing Benefit you could lose up to 25% of your benefit if you have two or more rooms “spare”. If you are a council tenant, or a housing association tenant who is affected by these changes, we may be able to help you move to a more affordable property. You should contact the Under Occupation Adviser on 01438 242666 to discuss your situation.
Pension Changes
The main benefits for older people (pension credit and attendance allowance) will remain outside of the welfare reform system. However a number of changes are being made which will affect people aged 60 and over. In particular, the pension age for women born after 5 April 1950 is gradually increasing from 60, so that by November 2018 it will be 65, the same as for men. The age for both men and women will then rise further to reach 66 by October 2020 and 67 between 2026 and 2028.

In addition, a new flat rate (single tier) state pension will be introduced for new pensioners in April 2016. The pension will be worth around £150 a week and require 35 qualifying years of national insurance contributions or credits to receive the full amount. Current pensioners and anyone reaching state pension age before the introduction of the new pension will continue to get their pension in line with existing rules.

Care Home Costs
Most people are expected to pay for all or some of the costs in a care home from their own income or capital. You will be expected to pay for the care home fees in full if you have more than £23,250 in capital or assets or income high enough to meet the cost of the care home. There are three types of residents in care homes: permanent, temporary and those who are resident for a short break or trial period. The type of stay can affect the way your resources are treated and how benefits are calculated.

There are major plans to reform adult social care, most of which will be implemented in 2016.

If you think that you should be getting free care in a care home, contact NHS Hertfordshire Continuing Healthcare Department on 01707 369574.

Carers Assessment

Carers sometimes need a break. This could be for a few hours a week or for a longer period. Their needs and preferences for the type and length of break, along with your own needs, can be assessed to see how you might be supported, including own personal budget and maybe entitlement to carer direct payments. The assessment is a legal entitlement. Hertfordshire County Council Health and Community Services are able to help you. The assessment deals with all aspects of the caring role including physical and mental health and addresses the importance of maintaining balance between the caring role and a life of your own.

Respite Care
There are different ways to provide respite services, such as holidays away from home, day care, or by someone coming in to the home so a carer can go out.

Respite care services aim to provide
• carers with a break if they are caring for someone who needs regular assistance with essential personal care and daily living tasks.
• people with a disability or long term illness with a break from caring for themselves so that they are more able to continue living at home.

One way of providing respite care is through short stays in a residential or nursing home. These can be arranged at regular intervals, known as intermittent care. Short stays may also be arranged for a period of convalescence after a hospital stay. They may be arranged in an emergency or planned in advance.

Carers’ Benefits

Carer’s Allowance is the main benefit for people regularly caring for someone who is ill or disabled and getting attendance allowance, disability living allowance care component at middle or higher rate or the daily living component of personal independence. The cared for person can be a relative, friend or neighbour. You may not get carer’s allowance if you are already getting a different benefit, for example, state pension or contributory employment and support allowance.

The Carer’s Credit, protects carers’ pensions to make sure that when they reach retirement they don’t face a reduced State Pension.

For the person you care for:

Attendance Allowance (AA)
This is paid to people aged 65 and over who are in need of a lot of assistance with personal care or require supervision.

Personal Independence Payment (PIP)
PIP is a new benefit which replaced Disability Living Allowance (DLA) although some people may still be getting this. Awards of PIP are based on the impact of the disability or health condition on the individual and their ability to live independently. You may have to travel to Luton for your assessment for PIP.

Bereavement Benefits
These are usually only paid to people aged under state pension age. There is a one-off, tax free, lump sum payment of £2000 that you can get in addition to a widowed parent’s allowance or bereavement allowance. Entitlement to bereavement benefits is not affected by any savings or earnings you may have but is dependent on the late spouse or civil partner’s national insurance contributions. You can work and get bereavement benefits. Major changes are planned for bereavement benefits from April 2016

Right to Buy Back
If you bought a council property that you feel is no longer suitable for your needs, the council may consider buying your home from you so that you can live in sheltered accommodation. For further information contact 01438 24266.

The current allocation scheme that the council operates has a number of criteria to ensure that we are allocating our homes to the people who need them. Recent changes to the criteria now mean that those who own their own home are not eligible to join the housing register.

If you have owned a home in the past, you will have to provide evidence on how you have spent any equity you may have had from the sale. You will also need to have lived or worked in Stevenage for the last five years before you can join.

Sheltered Housing
Sheltered housing is especially designed with the needs of older people in mind. It is run and maintained by Stevenage Borough Council and is available to residents who feel that they require support to live independently in their own home. There are 15 sheltered housing schemes in Stevenage plus 2 flexicare schemes. Flexicare is sheltered accommodation with a care team based on site to give you the extra care and support when you need it. Different clubs use the scheme’s facilities to host their activities and the residents also run their own social events which people living in the surrounding community are welcome to join in. If you are over the age of 60 and/or disabled and need support to live independently then you are able to apply for sheltered housing. You will need to complete a housing application and, if required, a medical form.
Supporting you to live in your home

Finding a Care Home

Residential care homes provide personal care and social support for people who are not able to manage in their own homes.

Nursing care homes look after people who need constant nursing care. As well as full-time residential care, care and nursing homes can also provide short-term respite breaks:

- to allow a person with a disability or long term illness the chance to have a break
- to provide carers the opportunity to have a break or holiday

Many people contact care homes directly to choose and arrange a place. Alternatively you can seek advice from Hertfordshire County Council.

It is recommended that you look at the following information to aid your decision.

- Care Quality Commission inspects all care homes once a year. You can download inspection reports from their website
- Bettercaring lets you search for registered residential and nursing homes
- Care Choices publishes regional directories of care homes

Scams are schemes to con you out of your money or possessions. They come by phone, post or email, or in the guise of ‘experts’ knocking on your door. Home fire safety routine steps to prevent fires from happening and what to do to stay safe if one breaks out.

PLAN – Plan your safest escape route

TEST – Fit a smoke alarm and test regularly

CHECK – Check all appliances before going to bed or leaving the house

CARE – never leave cooking unattended

CALL – get out, stay out and call 999 at the first sign of fire

These should be serviced annually once out of the guarantee period. When not in use they should be stored with as few folds as possible and with nothing stored on top of them. If a blanket has scorch marks or exposed elements it should NOT be used. Over blankets are designed to be left on and under blankets should be turned off before getting into bed. When buying a new blanket make sure it has an ‘overheat protection’ so that the electricity supply will be cut if it gets too hot.

Ready for Anything
By preparing for the unexpected you can help protect yourself and your loved ones and your pets.

Could you cope in severe weather, widespread power failure, flooding or a flu crisis? Hertfordshire is a safe county but it can still experience situations that disrupt our daily lives. The good news is that there are simple things you can do to make sure you are ready to deal with an emergency, particularly if you think ahead and make some plans.

Think about what you would need in an emergency at home, in your car, or if you were asked to leave your home for a few hours while a nearby emergency is dealt with. Useful things people often forget include their mobile phone charger, glasses and medication (if you need them) and pets.

Stevenage Borough Council Out-Of-Hours Service
Sometimes serious emergency situations occur outside of the council office hours that cannot wait until the next working day. This line is open for serious emergencies out of hours. The remit is to address the immediate emergency and make safe until the next working day when the daytime staff can then fully investigate the situation. Each situation is considered on an individual basis with advice and guidance offered to either contain the situation or alternative provision be found. Callers need to inform the service of additional circumstances for example disability, illness or condition which affects the situation. If you find yourself facing an emergency situation, please call and seek advice.

Caring for Pets in an Emergency
Make a pet plan and consider these points.

• Are they safer at home? If it is safe to do so food, water and litter facilities for several days should be left accessible for your pet.

• It may be necessary to evacuate your pet. Consider arranging for a friend, relative or kennels

• Put together a pet emergency kit, collar and lead, secure labelled pet carrier, proof of ownership and vaccination information documents, microchip details, emergency contact list with vet’s number, pet first aid kit, pet litter, box and poop bags, a record of medication, familiar toys or blanket

• For dogs maybe a basket muzzle in case your dog becomes distressed in the evacuation

Adult safeguarding is the term used for protecting adults from abuse or neglect. Safeguarding relates to the need to protect people over the age of 18 who may be in vulnerable circumstances. These are adults in need of care and support who may be at risk of abuse or neglect, due to the actions (or lack of action) of another person. The main forms of abuse are sexual, physical, psychological, neglect, discriminatory, institutional and financial.

In Hertfordshire local services work together to identify people at risk, put measures in place to help prevent abuse or neglect, and to protect people. The county council has the lead responsibility to co-ordinate the investigation of possible or actual abuse and ensure that measures are in place to prevent further abuse taking place.

GP practices

GP practices offer a range of services to prevent and treat illnesses and support people with long-term conditions such as diabetes, heart disease, asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD). Nurse practitioners and specialist nurses frequently work alongside GPs and practice nurses. Their additional training means they can diagnose, treat, and manage a variety of health conditions and some can prescribe from a list of medicines.

Every GP practice has a responsibility to ensure that everyone who needs to use their practice can do so. If you care for a friend or loved one, register as a carer with your GP - many GP surgeries have a ‘carers’ champion’ to support carers, making it easier for them to get convenient appointments for themselves or the person they care for, when they need to see a doctor or practice nurse. The carers’ champion will also invite carers to flu vaccination clinics and let them know about health promotion events and activities.

If you need a GP in the evenings or at weekends when your usual surgery is closed, dial 111 – free from any phone and open all the time.
How a pharmacist can help
If you have any questions about your medicines and their side-effects, or you have a minor illness, it’s worth popping into your local chemist and asking to see the pharmacist. Many pharmacies also have private consultation rooms, so you don’t have to worry about being overheard. And if the pharmacist can’t help, they will recommend you contact your GP anyway. Many local pharmacies can also arrange for your medicines to be delivered to your home, if you have difficulty picking up a repeat prescription.

Falls Prevention
We shouldn’t see falls as a normal part of ageing, or something that ‘just happens’ as you get older. There are lots of simple things you can do to help you stay steady on your feet. Exercise is one of the most effective ways to maintain independence and ensure we stay steady on our feet and reduce balance problems.

There are a number of things you can do to reduce the risk of a fall. Looking after your feet, and having them checked, wearing the right footwear, having annual hearing and eye tests. You could also look at checking your home for hazards, poor lighting, loose cables and clutter for example. The Careline alarm service would give you the reassurance that should you have a fall the mobile response staff will be there when you need it 24 hours a day 7 days a week.

Arthritis
Arthritis means inflammation of the joints. Most people with arthritis will experience pain and difficulty moving around. There are over 200 kinds of rheumatic diseases – the word rheumatic means aches and pains in joints, bones and muscles. You can take control of your symptoms and continue to have a good quality of life. It is not clear what causes arthritis and there is no cure at present. However, there is plenty you can do to manage your condition and lead a full and active life.

Dementia
The word dementia is an umbrella term which describes the symptoms that occur when the brain is affected by certain diseases or conditions. Dementia is caused when the brain is damaged by diseases, such as Alzheimer’s disease or a series of strokes. Dementia is progressive, which means the symptoms will gradually get worse.

As dementia progresses, people usually need to receive care and support services. It is a good idea to consider all your options carefully and make arrangements as soon as more help is needed. There are a range of public and community services across Stevenage who provide this support.
Early Memory Diagnosis and Support Service (EMDASS)

If you feel you have a problem with your memory on a daily basis, maybe other people have commented on this - or if you know someone who is experiencing difficulties with their memory, you may find EMDASS useful. This new service will help support people to find out why this could be happening and develop ways to cope with the memory problems. A referral to this team would be through a GP.

End of life or Palliative Care

When there is no cure for an illness, palliative care tries to make the end of a person’s life as comfortable as possible. This is done by attempting to relieve pain and other distressing symptoms, while providing psychological, social and spiritual support. Carers and family are also offered emotional and spiritual support – referred to as a holistic approach to care.

Some people with cancer, for instance, can live for many years, but they sometimes need treatments such as radiotherapy or chemotherapy, to help keep their condition under control. Palliative care can be offered following these treatments or, in the earlier stages of an illness, alongside other treatments.

The person you’re looking after can receive palliative care:
• in a hospice
• at their own home or residential home
• as a day patient in a hospice
• in a hospital

At some point, you may need to find a hospice for the person you’re looking after. People are normally referred to a hospice by their GP or hospital doctor. Hospices are free and a person may be referred at any time between the diagnosis of an illness and the end of life.
Funerals

Losing someone you love can be one of the most difficult situations to deal with, having to make formal arrangements when experiencing the emotional and the practical impact of loss, however, it is very important to attend to the registration of the death.

This includes

• Getting a medical certificate from a GP or hospital doctor. You’ll need this to register the death.
• Registering the death within five days. You’ll then get the documents you need for the funeral.
• Arranging the funeral, either using a funeral director or making the arrangements yourself.
If someone is a council tenant the next of kin should notify SBC as soon as possible to receive advice on how to terminate the tenancy and/or whether there are any succession claims.

If the death has been reported to a coroner you can’t register the death until the coroner gives permission. You don’t need to deal with the will, money and property straight away.

Tell us Once
The Hertfordshire Registration Service offers an innovative service called, Tell Us Once. The service aims to reduce the number of local and central government departments that Hertfordshire residents have to notify when they have had a baby or bereavement.

Tell Us Once is delivered straight after a birth or death registration, so you don’t even need to leave the register office to notify key government departments of the change in your circumstances.

Bereavement
The death of someone we love is likely to be the most distressing experience we will ever face. When someone dies, a relationship is lost, a process of change begins and we move towards a new and largely unknown situation. Grieving is hard work; and we may frequently feel exhausted, or have health problems of various kinds. But grief is not an illness. It is a natural human experience from which we can emerge to face a new and very different reality.

Loneliness
Loneliness has an impact on physical and mental health, often contributing to depression, poorer mobility and increased isolation and further reduced quality of life. Being single, on a low income, retirement and becoming a carer or being bereaved can trigger loneliness. Health and disability also play a role.

Social Contact
Preventing loneliness can be helped by supporting people to build and maintain social networks, providing information and signposting, support for individuals and group activity such as friendship groups, lunch clubs and interest groups and generally wider community engagement. Volunteering can be an opportunity for a rewarding and confidence building social activity.

Healthy Eating
For adults over 50, the benefits of healthy eating include increased mental acuteness, resistance to illness and disease, higher energy levels, faster recuperation times, and better management of chronic health problems. As we age, eating well can also be the key to a positive outlook and staying emotionally balanced. When you choose a variety of colourful fruits and vegetables, whole grains, and lean proteins you’ll feel vibrant and healthy, inside and out.

Live longer and stronger
Good nutrition keeps muscles, bones, organs, and other body parts strong for the long haul. Eating vitamin-rich food boosts immunity and fights illness-causing toxins. A proper diet reduces the risk of heart disease, stroke, high blood pressure, type-2 diabetes, bone loss, cancer, and anaemia. Also, eating sensibly means consuming fewer calories and more nutrient-dense foods, keeping weight in check.
Sharpen the mind
Key nutrients are essential for the brain to do its job. People who eat a selection of brightly coloured fruit, leafy vegetables, and fish and nuts packed with omega-3 fatty acids can improve focus and decrease their risk of Alzheimer’s disease. Regular consumption of antioxidant-rich green tea may also enhance memory and mental alertness as you age.

Feel better
Wholesome meals give you more energy and help you look better, resulting in a self-esteem boost. It’s all connected—when your body feels good you feel happier inside and out.

Exercise
Guidelines for older adults aged 65 and over

Older adults aged 65 or older, who are generally fit and have no health conditions that limit their mobility, should try to be active daily and should do:

• 2 hours and 30 minutes of moderate-intensity activity such as cycling or fast walking every week, and muscle-strengthening activities on 2 or more days a week.

OR

• 1 hour and 15 minutes of vigorous-intensity activity such as running or a game of singles tennis every week, and muscle-strengthening activities on 2 or more days a week.

OR

• An equivalent mix of moderate and vigorous-intensity activity every week for example two 30-minute runs plus 30 minutes of fast walking and muscle-strengthening activities on 2 or more days a week.

Older adults at risk of falls, such as people with weak legs, poor balance and some medical conditions, should do exercises to improve balance and co-ordination on at least two days a week. Examples include yoga, tai chi and dancing. Should you have a health condition your GP may be able to suggest suitable activities and may know of special exercises or classes for people with a restricted ability to exercise.

Stevenage Leisure limited run a programme of activities aimed at the over 50’s at their leisure sites at various times across the week. This includes classes for those who are already confident and able in a leisure and fitness capacity as well as classes for beginner level and those who require specific tailored activities as part of a wider GP referral programme.

Power of Attorney
There are a number of reasons why you might need someone to make decisions for you, or act on your behalf. It could just be temporary: for example, if you are in hospital and need help with everyday things such as making sure that any bills are paid. Or you may need to make more long-term plans if, for example, you have been diagnosed with dementia.
Ordinary Power of Attorney

If you want to give someone full access to make decisions and take action concerning your finances while you still have mental capacity, you can set up an Ordinary Power of Attorney. This is a legal document giving someone else authority to act on your (the donor’s) behalf.

You can limit the power you give to your attorney so that they can only deal with certain assets, for example, your bank account but not your home.

Lasting Power of Attorney

There are two separate types of Power of Attorney (LPA) a Property and Financial Affairs LPA, which covers areas of your life where money and property are involved, and a Health and Welfare LPA, which relates to decisions about your health, personal care and welfare.

Office of the Public Guardian

Wills

Your will lets you decide what happens to your money, property and possessions after your death. If you make a will you can also make sure you don’t pay more Inheritance Tax than you need to. You can write your will yourself, but you should get legal advice, for example from Citizens Advice. You will need to get your will formally witnessed and signed to make it legally valid.

If you want to update your will, you need to make an official alteration (called a ‘codicil’) or make a new will. If you die without a will, the law says who gets what.
